

Bank of America's commitment to responsible growth depends on the ways we share success with the communities we serve. We believe in the power of the arts to help economies thrive, educate and enrich societies, and create greater cultural understanding. Each year we support more than 2,000 nonprofit arts institutions across the globe to illuminate varied cultural traditions so the arts sector can create pathways for more diverse employment and engagement.

We are pleased to support Verrocchio: Sculptor and Painter of Renaissance Florence at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, DC. The National Gallery of Art has been a longtime partner of Bank of America, and we value the integral role it plays in the national and global arts landscape, and in the region's economy.

Please enjoy the exhibition.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "B. Moynihan".

Brian Moynihan
Chief Executive Officer
Bank of America