

NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART
WASHINGTON, D. C.

FOR RELEASE
APRIL 12, 1943

As part of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Celebration, the National Gallery of Art will hold an exhibition of portraits of Jefferson and his contemporaries, also of architectural drawings by Jefferson and photographs of buildings designed and influenced by him. The exhibition, which contains many famous items lent from public and private collections, will be opened to the public at three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, April 13th, and continue through May 15th.