Fall Lecture Program Highlights Artists Carrie Mae Weems and Deborah Luster, Exhibitions, the Vermeer Phenomenon, and More

Washington, DC—The advent of fall brings to the National Gallery of Art a fresh new program of lectures given by distinguished artists and scholars. Highlights include artists Carrie Mae Weems and Deborah Luster, as well as programming in honor of the 1995-1996 blockbuster exhibition Johannes Vermeer and 2015 exhibitions Gustave Caillebotte: The Painter's Eye, Pleasure and Piety: The Art of Joachim Wtewael (1566–1638), Power and Pathos: Bronze Sculpture of the Hellenistic World, The Memory of Time: Contemporary Photographs at the National Gallery of Art, Acquired with the Alfred H. Moses and Fern M. Schad Fund, and The Serial Impulse at Gemini G.E.L.

The Diamonstein-Spielvogel Lecture Series provides a forum for distinguished artists to discuss the genesis and evolution of their work in their own words. On Saturday, September 12, at 2:00 p.m., Carrie Mae Weems will present a lecture on her artistic practice and career. Weems makes provocative, socially motivated art that examines issues of race, gender, and class inequality, shedding light on those who have been left out of the historical record. Her work is represented in the Gallery’s collection by the chromogenic prints After Monet (2002) and May Flowers (2002), as well as Slow Fade to Black II (2010), a group of 17 inkjet prints. All are on view in The Memory of Time exhibition. Weems will sign copies of the exhibition catalog following the lecture.

For the sixth presentation by an artist featured in The Memory of Time exhibition, photographer Deborah Luster will celebrate closing day with a lecture and book signing program on Sunday, September 13, at 2:00 p.m. In a lecture titled Archive of Lamentations, Luster will discuss the evolution of her work from the projects One Big Self Prisoners of Louisiana and Tooth for an Eye: A Choreography of Violence in Orleans Parish. She will also speak about her current project at Louisiana’s Angola Prison. Luster is available after the lecture to sign copies of Tooth for an Eye and The Memory of Time.

Talking Shop with Sidney Felsen: Fifty Years of Artists at Gemini G.E.L. is a conversation between Lauren Schell Dickens, curatorial consultant at the National Gallery of Art, and Sidney Felsen, co-founder and codirector of Gemini G.E.L., on October 1 at 2:00 p.m. They will discuss the 50th anniversary of the renowned Los Angeles artists’ workshop and publisher, in honor of The Serial Impulse at Gemini G.E.L. exhibition.

On November 8 at 2:00 p.m., David Bindman, emeritus professor of the history of art at University College London, delivers the 19th annual Sydney J. Freedberg Lecture on Italian Art entitled Canova and Color. The Freedberg Lecture features distinguished scholars presenting original research. Antonio Canova’s (1757-1822) sculptures are notable for their pure use of marble. However, the sculptor was the subject of controversy in his own time because he often toned down the whiteness of the marble and in some cases tinted the stone in flesh colors. Bindman will discuss the immense prestige of marble sculpture over every other kind of art in the 19th century and the attitudes we have towards it now.

The Vermeer Phenomenon, on Sunday, November 15 at 2:00 p.m., is a lively lecture program recollecting the historic 1995–1996 exhibition on the Dutch master. Present to recount their experiences of this defining moment in the history of museum exhibitions will be Maygene Daniels, chief of Gallery Archives; Arthur K. Wheelock Jr., curator of northern baroque paintings; and Deborah Ziska, chief of communications.

On December 6 at 2:00 p.m., the Rajiv Vaidya Memorial Lecture will be presented by James Layton, manager of the Celeste Bartos Film Preservation Center at the Museum of Modern Art, and David Pierce, founder of Media History Digital Library and president of Sunrise Entertainment Inc. In Technicolor at 100, Layton and Pierce discuss one of the most widely recognized names in the American film industry. The lecture includes a screening of three early Technicolor shorts and a book signing of The Dawn of Technicolor, 1915–1935.

All lecture programs are presented free of charge in the East Building Auditorium unless otherwise noted. Seating is on a first-come, first-seated basis.
