Icare Apprenti (1973) is a composition consisting of six bags with a plan of directions on the right hand side, and "windows," on each side. to be cut out. In addition, there are two groups of four slots to be cut out and a small supplementary "window" on the right hand side. Each bag is differentiated by a capital letter and by groups of two colors. The intervals and their corresponding colors are in the same position on each page in the following way:

Fourths (Red)	Tritones (Violet)
Whole tones (Blue)	Major thirds (Orange)
Minor thirds (Yellow)	Semitones (Green)

Each sheet with the six networks is placed in any of the bags in such a way that one network appears through each of the large windows. The order in which these bags are to be played is determined by the performer. Arrows indicate the direction in which the performer is to explore the intervals.
